(1.1.1) Curricula developed /adopted have relevance to the local/ national / regional/global developmental needs with learning objectives including program outcomes, program specific outcomes and course outcomes of all the program offered by the University

The Centre for Women Studies and Research currently is offering Certificate Course in 'Women and Law'. The curriculum developed for the certificate course so far has been quite relevant to the local, national as well as global needs. While framing the curricula, the centre has taken into consideration all current trends in job market, gender equality, constitutional provisions for promotion of women's rights, legal awareness, economic and social empowerment, social security, feminist discourse, skill enhancement, globalization, and gender perspective in the polity and economy. The curricula of 'Certificate Course' has proved quite significant to the society as most of the students pursuing the course have got sensitized themselves towards women issues and adjusted in different capacities in various Organizations like Department of Social Welfare, Legal cells, NGO's, Women's Development Corporation and as Counsellors in various organizations.

The course has proved very effective in creating legal awareness and gender sensitization among the students and it has a very good scope. The course was launched in 2014 and 3 batches have completed their courses and got their degrees. One unique feature of this of course is that it has not attracted only women students but also a large group of male students. Many students working in different fields have also benefitted from this course

Since 2017, the Centre is also offering six credit courses entitled Conceptualizing of Gender Studies, Gender Mainstreaming, Women and Society in India and Gender and Society in Kashmir, Women and Human Resource Management and Women and Disability under the CBSC Scheme to the students belonging to other Departments of the University. The curriculum of these courses has been prepared taking into consideration the capacity enhancement, personality development and social orientation requirements of the students. The course outcome of these courses is in tune with current trends.

The centre has launched its Master's in Gender Studies from academic session 2018, for providing an opportunity to the younger generation for studying the gender and its relevance in society, economy and politics. The programme aims at creating a fair and a just society where all citizens, irrespective of gender, would enjoy equality and prosperity.

University of Kashmir has been always on forefront for adopting innovative, job oriented and market relevant courses for fulfilling the challenging needs of the aspiring youth. The initiatives of the University in offering such courses to keep pace with the current trends have been appreciated by the stakeholders. The programmes offered by this centre are in congruence with these initiatives of the University.

Students are involved in field projects, panel discussion, debates and seminars etc. Since we were not having regular students on rolls as the center was delivering only certificate course in Women and Law. Due to this deficiency, more students' centric methods have not been followed.

It is now from July 2018 that our regular Masters Programme in Gender Studies has started and the time table has been framed according to the above mentioned methods where more focus will be on student activities and their active participation in all matters related to academic as well as non-academic fields. Their participation in learning new skills and enhancing the existing ones will be a top priority. Seminars, discussion, debates, Workshops and Conferences and awareness programmes have been a routine task of the center.
